FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK:

Thought for the Week:

'Whether you think you can or think you can't, either way you're right'.

By Henry Ford

Last week was certainly a week of ups and down. The rain, while a welcomed joy, it also caused some devastation throughout the region. Many of our families were affected and are still cleaning up and making repairs. Our thoughts are with you.

P – 5 UnderWater World Camp

As you know our Camp to UnderWater World didn't go ahead, due to a number of reasons that culminated with the bus breaking down in the school grounds. We have rebooked this excursion for December 1 and 2, next Monday and Tuesday. The students will participate in the Life Education program in the morning and then leave for camp around 1pm. They will return around 2pm on Tuesday. They get to participate in some interesting activities while at UnderWater World! I am sure that they will all have a great time. The P&C have kindly donated towards the cost of the bus for this excursion and are providing a snack for the second day. Thank you to the P&C for helping with the excursion. Students that are not participating in this excursion can come to school to spend the days with Mr Rickuss and the 6/7 students. We will have activities organised for all students.

Staff Changes

We have had some changes with the teacher coming into the school for next year. Mrs Sharon Tuesley has accepted another position within Education Queensland. Our new teacher, Ms Nicole Wheatley is coming from Mundingburra State School in Townsville. She will be teaching the 5/6/7 class. She is very pleased to be coming to a small school after teaching at a school of 600. Ms Wheatley will not be able to attend the orientation day on Monday 8th.

Reading Groups

Tomorrow will be the last of our scheduled reading groups for the year. We would like to extend a big thank you to all the parents, grandparents and community members who gave up their time to help ensure that this important part of our school day ran smoothly. All the children have benefited from your time, patience and support. We look forward to continuing this next year.

Library books All library books will need to be returned by this Friday, 28th November.

Life Education Queensland

On Monday 1st December, the life education van will visit the school. During this visit, there will be a special parent session that will run from 3:15pm – 4:15pm. The focus on this session is to inform parents about licit and illegal drugs and provides parents and community members with information on development and sharing of harm minimisation and communication strategies for themselves and their children. If you are interested in attending the parent session please fill in the form at the end of the newsletter.

Life Education Queensland is a community-based not-for-profit organisation at the front line of positive and preventative drug and health education. Their programs are designed to help young people make informed decisions about drugs and their health. The programs are driven by the popular Life Education mascot Harold the giraffe. Specialist educators work in collaboration with schools to ensure the best outcome for students. Sessions are age specific and sequential with written and electronic resources provided to support both students and teachers in the delivery of ongoing drug education in their classroom. A visit to the mobile Life Education van facilitates the development of students' knowledge and skills to identify risks and make informed decisions.

Reports

The end of year reports will be going home on Wednesday 3rd December. This is the Wednesday of the second last week. This will give parents a chance to have an interview with the class teacher before the end of the year.

Picnic Carols Night

Our Annual Picnic Carols night will held on Friday 5th December commencing at 5:30pm with a community tea. We ask that each family bring along a plate of food to share. After tea there will be an awards and presentation ceremony, followed by carols and of course Santa! All school children will be receiving a book from Santa on the night.

Prep Orientation/ Move Up Day for Preps to Year 6 / Year 7 Lowood State High School Year 8 induction Day

Monday 8th December will be a busy day at our school. It is our Orientation day for Prep students and parents joining us next year. On the same day students in years 1 – 7 for 2009 will get to meet their new teachers and classmates. Also on the 8th December, the year 7 students attending Lowood State High School will have an induction into year 8. We will have a relief teacher to take the 5/6/7 class for that day.

Volunteers Morning Tea

We are very fortunate to have a large number of keen, willing helpers who assist with all aspects of the school program, be it reading groups, tuckshop, excursions, sport, fundraising, and the list goes on. We would like to say a special thanks to you all for your valued contributions. After assembly on Wednesday morning, 10th December you are welcome to join us for a special morning tea in your honour.

Student Plays

The students in year 5/6/7 have been writing plays. They have also been working on backdrops for their plays. The plays have been written so that children from all classes will have a part to play. The plays will be performed on Wednesday 10th December from 2pm. Please come along and watch the students

Circus

Thank you to all who came along to enjoy the circus on Monday night and to the P & C for providing food and drinks. The circus proprietor, John MacDonnell donated $113 to the children's Project Club from ticket sales.

Brisbane Valley Small School Sports Association Swimming Carnival

Thank you to the parents for transporting and supporting their children at the Swimming Carnival yesterday. The children were very well behaved and had many placings. Special Article – 'Kids Fighting' – by Michael Grose

What do you do if your kids fight and argue with each other? Do you make a plea for peace, order the combatants to their bedrooms or lay the blame on the child who caused the infraction? It is almost impossible to stay out of kids' fighting because they are usually noisy and invariably one child will call on mum or dad to intervene. So common is kids fighting that it appears to have become the first commandment of childhood – Thou shalt fight and argue with your brothers and sisters until your parents can stand it no longer. My research indicates that sibling fighting is a concern to parents in three out of every four families with more than one child. Certainly this is the issue that most parents want to discuss when they come to my parenting seminars.

It is important to have a realistic attitude to children's disputes. When adults live together under one roof there are bound to be disagreements. Why should children be any different? Conflict itself is not harmful, but the way disagreements are resolved is the issue that generally concerns parents. Kids fights usually have a number of predictable phases. The first is the quiet stage when one child annoys, niggles or even criticises another. The dispute enters phase two as the noise level rises and children become agitated or belligerent. The fight is now almost in full swing so parents need to brace themselves for stage three which is the moving phase when the fight shifts from one area of the house to another accompanied by the use of insults, shouting and door slamming. It may even become physical. There are two broad approaches that parents can adopt with kids fighting – become involved or remain neutral. Your approach will depend on the age, maturity and ability of your children to sort out their own problems, your ability to ignore noise and your beliefs about how conflict should be resolved.

Australian psychologist and parenting authority, Dr Maurice Balson in his book Becoming Better Parents recommends that parents leave children to resolve their own disputes. He says, "If parents ignored sibling fighting and left children free to settle their own disputes, the incidence of fighting would decrease." He maintains that kids fighting is for the benefit of their parents and when we intervene to adjudicate or punish the guilty child, we are doing exactly what the children want us to do. This approach makes a great deal of sense, but as most parents know, some fights are impossible to ignore particularly when they happen under your nose. If this is the case make a swift retreat when children fight or invite them to resolve their noisy disputes outside. Many parents have found that arguing and fighting practically disappears when children are consistently shown the door to the back yard.

Children often need parental assistance to help them resolve their disputes amicably. When children want you to intervene in their disagreements let them know that you are willing to help them work out a solution, but avoid taking sides. Establish what the fight is about, rather than who started it, and offer suggestions to resolve the issue. Of course you cannot sit down and work through every issue with kids, but through meetings or discussions you can at least give them some guidelines that they may use themselves. But don't expect children to suddenly sit down and discuss every dispute with Buddha-like wisdom if they have hurled insults at each other for years. Be realistic and look for small improvements. If you do intervene in kids fighting, make sure that you get in early before a full-scale fight occurs. Be assertive, make them aware that they are arguing and inform them of its affect on you. Invite them to either stop fighting or continue the dispute elsewhere.

If you are concerned that one child is being victimised or singled out by other siblings discuss some survival strategies such as going to their bedroom at the first sign of a fight or even moving close to a parent if safety is an issue. Often the victims give as good as they receive when families fight and can sometimes be the instigators of disputes. Don't be too perturbed if your children argue and fight with each other at the drop of a hat. Some of the closest adult families admit to habitually fighting when they were children. And some young siblings I know are affectionate to each other one minute and ready to fight tooth and nail the next. Let's face it, children are hard to fathom at the best of times and down-right impossible when they fight.

Fortunately, there are strategies that parents can use that dramatically reduce the amount, frequency and intensity of fights that happen in families. One simple preventative strategy is the use of regular team briefs. Once a week parents sit with their children in a quiet place and discuss family issues and concerns as well as talk about positive things that have happened in the past week. Invariably kids conflict and issues kids fight about are raised. This gives children both a voice and parents an opportunity to teach children how to resolve conflict reasonably and quietly. My research shows that families that have a conflict resolution process in place, such as team briefs or family meetings experience a significant reduction in kids fighting.

P&C Christmas Raffle – Picnic Carols Night

This year to provide prizes for the P&C raffle, we are asking each family to donate a non-perishable item that can be used in a hamper. The amount of hamper prizes in the raffle will depend on the amount of donations received, so if you would like to donate more than one item that would be greatly appreciated. You may wish to provide something festive including Christmas decorations, tins of fruit, packets of chips or peanuts etc. Tickets will be $1-00 each and only sold at Picnic Carols Night on Friday 5th December. Please place donations in boxes provided in the staffroom by Wednesday 3rd December so that the hampers can be put together at the P&C meeting that night. Thank you for your assistance with this fundraiser.

Picnic Carols Night

Our Annual Picnic Carols night will held on Friday 5th December commencing at 5:30pm with a community tea. We ask that each family bring along a plate of food to share for tea. Following on from tea there will be an awards and presentation ceremony, followed by carols and of course Santa! All school children will be receiving a book from Santa on the night. Just a reminder to please let Trish know on 54 266292 of any:

- younger siblings of current students
- under school-aged children in the area who intend to enrol at our school in the future

This way we can ensure they receive a book from Santa too.

If you know of other children attending on the night, please advise their parents to supply a book labelled with their name and age, so that they can sit on Santa's lap and receive a book too.

Circus

Thank you to everyone that supported the Circus on Monday night. Once again it was a fantastic show with plenty of laughs for the young and young at heart. It was a joy to see everyone enjoying such great entertainment. Thanks also to the workers who helped in the food stall. Some good funds were raised on the night for the school. Keep an eye out in the Playshed for some photos.

Great Ipswich Duck Race

Thank you to all the families who sold tickets in this fundraiser. The P&C had an incentive prize of a $10 gift voucher from Lowood/Fernvale NewsXpress for the student who sold the most tickets. The winner was Dane Whalley who was presented with the voucher on parade last Wednesday. For every $5 ticket sold, the Ipswich Hospice will donate $2.50 back to the P&C. If you purchased tickets, remember you have to be in attendance at Riverlink on Saturday 20th December to see if you have won a car or 1 of 50 $100 shopping vouchers for Riverlink.

Flags R Fun Fundraiser

With Christmas just around the corner, we have a novel idea to help with Christmas decorating or a great Christmas gift - String-A-Longs. They are indoor/outdoor decorations which are 3 metres long and made of weather-resistant nylon with mini-flags attached to a nylon cord. There are 2 on display in the Prep to 2 classroom. One is Christmas and the other is Welcome. You will see from the order form (attached) that there are quite a few options available at the moment. Debby from Flags R Fun will have new products available often and even if you purchase products from her online shop in the future, she will still make a donation to the P&C. Great for decorating children's rooms and parties and unique present idea. Order forms with money are due back on Friday 5th December so that she can guarantee delivery by 12th December. Any queries, please contact Debby Nielsen direct on 5450 6364.

Glamorgan Vale State School Newsletter

Final P&C Meeting for the year

Our final P&C meeting for the year will be held next Wednesday night 3rd December at 6:30pm. As this is the last one before Christmas we ask that everyone bring along a few festive nibbles along to enjoy during the meeting. Please feel free to bring a bottle of Christmas Cheer too!

Australia Day at Cormorant Bay

The Somerset Regional Council are holding an Australia Day Celebration at Cormorant Bay on Saturday 25th January. They have invited the P&C to hold a food stall similar to last year. It's a difficult time for us to organise helpers for this event as it is right at the end of the School Holidays. If you are available on that date and would like to give us a hand can you please let Trish or Annette know. We are yet to know the full details of the event, but as soon as we do we will let everyone know.

Glamorgan Vale Hall's 80th Anniversary

Help celebrate the Glamorgan Vale Community Hall's 80th birthday on Saturday 29th November with a special afternoon tea from 2pm. Take a stroll down memory lane with the old photo displays and a special multimedia presentation commemorating 80 years of history. The new renovations will be officially opened and a permanent photographic display unveiled. Entry is by Gold coin donation. Why not also stay on for the annual Christmas Carnival which kicks off from 5pm that evening.

Glamorgan Vale Christmas Carnival

Don't forget the Glamorgan Vale Christmas Carnival is also on Saturday 29th November from 5pm. It's a fantastic night for the whole family with cheap rides for the kids, the best steak burgers in the district, icy cold drinks from the bar, Country Music by Kev Smith and of course the lucky ham wheel spinning throughout the night. Santa will be arriving to meet everyone at 7pm. Entry is free!

The Flood

The big rain caught everyone by surprise last week. Some folk are saying it was higher than in 1974. One thing for sure was that the water came through with frightening force. We hope those who suffered flood damage are getting things sorted out so that life can return back to normal as soon as possible.
